What Sounds Do You Love?

Sounds are amazing! They are an important part of how we understand the world around us and crucial for language development. Just think of all the sounds you hear on any given day: the cracking of dry leaves when you walk in the forest, the pitter patter of rain falling, the wind howling, or the kettle boiling. The more you notice them, the more you realize that sounds are everywhere.

My Book of Feelings

Joy, fear, anger, surprise... children experience a range of emotions every day, often at the same time, and they sometimes find it difficult to articulate what they feel. Naming and identifying emotions is a way for little ones to start recognizing these feelings. As they gain self-awareness, children learn to manage their emotions, a critical skill that lays the foundation for emotional intelligence and resilience. The feelings described in this book, each associated with a color, include joy, surprise, anger, love, fear, sadness, and calm.
